While Virgil and Dorothy lived here they loved all the animals and birds that lived in these woods around their home. They befriended them with food and care, especially the more unusual variety that would occasionally arrive like the Black Swan in the photo with Dorothy. They gave this land for a City Park so the animals could continue in their homes and so the public could enjoy, learn about, and protect them as they did. In the last 50 years this writer has seen all these creatures that are listed, and many more, and even today, most of these creatures might be seen in different seasons, different times of day or night, or on occasion from time to time. Tonight, look closely. Representations of these creatures can be found in the Park in the area of the house, 'boat barn foundation', and 'garden'.

We have added 5 more this year. See if you can find all 45 of them.
