SoulMates (July 31)

Individually these are seasoned and storied performing artists with world class credentials - true pros doing what they love to do best. These boys can play! Together they are a stellar collective of soul - a sonic brotherhood with a spiritual connection - musical soul mates. A co-op of gifted composers and arrangers take the listener on a journey of musical twists and turns, breathing new life into some classic themes and breaking ground on a new frontier of original sounds. +SOULMATES- illicit a variety of musical moods and emotions: One moment up and jumping, the next they will go deep and hypnotic. Then its on to a travelogue of world rhythms and cultures, playfully tossing a ball of invisible musical energy amongst themselves. Sultry jazz sounds, stinging blues and raw funk can converge seamlessly, and then may segue into some flat out 'baby making music'! This is all wrapped up with a lot of love and an infectious groove of all their own.

Drawing from a deep well of seemingly infinite artistry, +SOULMATES- fill the venue with their musical message of love, peace and soul. This is true music magic!

Spreading the love, one show at a time.

Tyler Stenson (Aug. 14)

As front man and songwriter for his former bands Lander and Rhetoric Tuesday, Stenson played the Northwest college circuit throughout the early 2000s with great success. However, often unfulfilled by the beer soaked bars and bent upon highlighting his poignant lyrics that were too often shadowed by nightlife noise, he soon put band-oriented rock-n-roll to rest and tackled the burgeoning Portland scene in 2007 as a solo artist -- it was the best decision he would ever make.

Now, having been twice named the "Songwriter of the Year" by the Portland Songwriters Association (2007 and 2008) and "Best Male Artist" at the 2011 Portland Music Awards, Stenson's authentic sound is claiming stake on the national stage. Already considered one of the premiere singer/songwriters in the Northwest, Stenson was recently named a Top 10 Finalist in Guitar Center's 'Search for the Next Great American Songwriter' contest with Don Was (out of 10,000) and, out of nearly 4,000 bands, he was hand-selected by Adam Duritz (Counting Crows) and Ryan Spaulding (RSLblog) to perform at The Outlaw Roadshow showcase at SxSW 2013 in Austin, TX.

The Ty Curtis Band (August 21)

The Ty Curtis Band recently earned second place in the prestigious 2009 International Blues Challenge. The Challenge started with more than two-thousand bands in nine countries and thirty-six states. One hundred bands earned the right to come to Memphis. Ten made it to the finals, and The Ty Curtis Band was voted second place by a panel of judges made up of industry professionals. No small feat for a young band from Salem, Oregon. The band's strong performance in Memphis has resulted in bookings for the Montreal Jazz Festival, the Redwood Run, the St. Johns Blues festival as well as numerous offers from European festivals.

This accomplishment comes on the heels of the band's recognition in the Pacific Northwest. In the Fall of 2008, the band was nominated by the members of the Portland, Oregon-based Cascade Blues Association for Best Regional Act and Best New Act, getting the nod for Best New Act of 2008. The Cascade Blues Association also selected the band's first CD, "Stubborn Mind," as the Best Self-Produced CD for 2008.

None of this is surprising to the Northwest blues fans that have been filling clubs, festivals and dance floors wherever the band performs. Playing a mix of blues, blues-rock, funk and swing, the band keeps audiences' attention with a multi-talented lineup.

Red Light Romeos (Aug 28)

The Red Light Romeos are Portland's self-proclaimed 'Sultans of Smooth', performing soft rock hits from the 70's by artists such as The Eagles, Fleetwood Mac, The Doobie Brothers, and Christopher Cross, just to name a few. The Romeos feature all the signature sounds of the 'Yacht Rock' era with rich harmonies, lush musical textures, smooth grooves, and a swagger that takes the audience on a rollicking trip down memory lane to a time when AM Gold ruled the airwaves!
