TIPS FOR READING WITH YOUR BABY

- It's never too early to start! Your newborn won't understand your words, but hearing your voice stimulates an interest in sounds and helps develop listening skills.
- Avoid choosing anything too delicate. Babies love to grab and mouth everything they can reach, so board books or those with heavy duty pages can endure the most wear and tear.
- Read favorite stories again and again (and again!) Repetition is good because it helps your baby build and reinforce language skills.
- It's ok if you don't finish every book you start. Focus on making reading together fun, not forced.
- The interactions you have with your child is the key to making the most out of reading. Help your child make connections to the story and associations to real life.
- No matter your baby's age, reading together is a wonderful shared opportunity for cuddling and bonding. Over time this positive attention will become associated with books to make reading an enjoyable and valued activity.
